Ol' 101 With F. M. L.

We cast around for a good opener for Ol' 101 this week and found:

"The critical period in matrimony is breakfast time."

—Sir Alan Herbert

And that's about right, The most difficult time at our house is early morning ..... particularly on a morning when it's cold outside ..... like Wednesday.

101 - 101 - 101

The most unusual thing that morning was that our 20 - month-old did not rise at her usual 5:30 a. m. and practice lighting matches or turning on the water full blast in the wash basin or writing a short story on the wall, and so on.

It was cold and she preferred to stay in bed.

But normally, one or all these things are going on while her parents are sleeping unaware.

Then she has been known to leave the house on a chilly afternoon, with bathrobe and purse, but barefooted, and walk a block or so to a neighbor's.

I think this is why early morning is hard on matrimony even if you can't blame your wife.

101 - 101 - 10

By the time breakfast time arrives at our house, like thousands of others, the action really starts. It is then that younsters seem to reach the height of ambition in eating and being the center attraction too.

That we lack control of this child is admitted, I assure you. But I feel most defenseless when you haven't yet had that first cup of coffee and breakfast.

And what do you do when things on your side of the table seem much more interesting than on your child's side and the shortest distance is across the table? And she walks it?

I tell you it's a dilemma to fight the problem. If you're too stern, everybody howls. If you're not stern enough, you howl.

That's why breakfast time is critical at our house, Sir Herbert, What's your excuse?

Medical officials at Newton Hospital said the youth suffered a concussion, a left - arm fracture, internal injuries, broken ribs and loss of six front teeth.

Yoe Wins Over A&M Cons., 61-48

Jack Larimore's YHS basketballers paced by Senior Bobby Griswold's 18 points, won their first district contest of the season Tuesday night over A & M Consolidated, 61 - 48.

P. D. Gandy tallied 22 points in a losing effort for the Tigers.

The victory gave the Fighting Yoemen a 1-3, won - lost record in district competition and brought their season record to 7 wins and 8 losses.

Griswold hit the basket for 5 field goals and 8 charity tosses for his night's work. Ed Lierman, lanky senior roundballer was second in Yoe scoring with 12 points.

The Yoemen garnered 11 points in the first quarter of play while Consolidated came across with 8. Cameron came back with 17 in the second quarter, holding the opposotion to 15. A 17 point third quarter and 16 point last frame, in which Griswold tallied 9 rounded up the Yoe scoring. Consolidated hit the bucket for 5 points in the third frame and 16 in the last.

The Yoemen took the upper hand of the game mid - way through the first quarter when McClaren hit with a two - banger and 9-8 lead. Lierman added 2 for insurance and McClaren got another before Consolidated regained their feet, too late to do anything but watch as the Cameron crew continued to "rack up".

The Yoemen lost a close, 50-49 team decision to Consolidated earlier in the evening.

Cameron came from behind to tie the game at 48 - 48 with 14 second left to play. Merlin Lester hit the basket with a free toss, giving the Yoemen a one point edge, only for Paul Manaliga to hit with a field goal for A M in the games last 7 seconds.

In other recent basketball action, the Yoemen lost to Hearne last Friday night in the Eagle gymnasium, 59 - 50.

Tempers flared, fists flew and the Yoemen blew up in the last quarter of play. Cameron held a 19 - 18 halftime lead, only to relinquish it to a 9 point tromping.

David Barkemeyer and Bobby Griswold paced in the Yoemen scoring department with 20 and 16 respectable points. Rich Reed got 17, Grady Russell 13 and Billy Hall 10 for Hearne.

The B team lost another close one, 37 - 36.

Yoe Team In Last Position In District Play

Federal Position Taken

By Robert Stonedale
Cameron Herald Correspondent

AUGUSTA, GEORGIA. January 22,1861. Proud Georgia, loath to remain in the tents of the quinescent, completed several days of discussion on the vital question of Secession in the Convention assembled for the purpose and has cast her lot with her Soverign Sisters. By a vote of 209 to 89, the delegates informed Governor Joseph Brown of the dissolution day before yesterday, and thus ratified the action of Savannah's Mayor Frances Bartow who seized Fort Pulaski from the Federals earlier this month.

Georgia's choice was not precipated. The Convention was called to order by Governor Brown on the 17th and deliberated every asspect of the question. The delegates first gave full attention to an impassioned plea by frail Alexander Stephens who has long served Georgia in the halls of government.

Mr. Stephens counseled forbearence and patience and urged the delegates to vote Secession only as a last resort. He was one of several who urged moderation.

The Honorable James Orr, Commissioner from South Carolina spoke in rebuttal. In impassioned tones he outlined the sacrifices of the brave citizens who are even now leaving their homes and firesides to answer the call of Mars and to face the impacable foe.

"Gentlmen," Orr concluded, "My brave countrymen need you and the aid of all true men. South Carolina will, if need be, offer up every life within her borders before bowing in defeat. No Spartan deeds will surpass our own. But we do not stand alone. Already the valiant peoples of Alabama, Florida and Mississippi, have set their faces against the tyrants.

"Georgia must be numbered among those who cherish freedom," he said.

"We wait to link our arms with yours in defence of our lives and homes."

A fierce storm of cheering broke over the Hall as Orr concluded. The Convention then considered resolutions dealing with the legality of the doctrine of Secession. Resolutions dealing with the advisability of such a move became involved in the debate, which was finally closed with a vote of 165 to 130 supporting the principle.

After another full day of debate the delegates dissolved the bands of Union between the Sovereign State of Georgia and the other states of the Union. Their action was quickly endorsed by the people at large.

Bondfires flamed at Milledgegan filling their ranks. In Augusta tonight, a meeting of militia officers is considering the threat posed to the public security by the huge United States Arsenal here. Captain Milltr Parnell of Augusta Light Infantry announced that a request for orders has been dispatched to Governor Brown's office and that in the meantime, close watch will be kept to prevent removal or destruction of the arms by Yankee caretakers.

The authorities in other States have been active and have seized additional supplies before they could be turned against their people. Certain events indicate that the tricky Northerners have appropiated and spirited away some of the implements of war located at other arsenals. When Florida authorities broke into the structure at Chattahoochee, they discovered that every single arm had been removed, although more than one half million cartridges were left behind.

The Florida authorities were quick to react. Under the command of General William H. Chase of the State Troops, Florida, Mississippi, and Alabama volunteers occupied military positions at Pensacola while part of the Federal force withdrew to Fort Pickens in the harbor.

Chamber Board Considers Commission

The Board of directors of the Cameron Chamber of Commerce has called for a complete study of a proposal for a Cameron Industrial Foundation.

With a workable, practical plan, Cameron can take one more stride toward consummating her thousands of work hours and millions of dollars preparation into success for this area: additional location of industry that will provide the obvious benefits of fuller employment.

Students of industrial location will agree that the most successful at developing local industry are the communities or cities with an organization for the job. Call it what you will: council, foundation, commission or a branch of the Chamber of Commerce.

The problem of the 1960's is to achieve considerable measure of payroll expansion in the Cameron area to balance the acknowledged mechanization of agriculture.

There may be a fear that agriculture might take an unwarranted backseat to further industrialization of North Milam County. All the evidence of tradition and function of Cameron, its Chamber of Commerce and institutions of this community points otherwise.

Cameron is conducting outstanding livestock, pecan and poultry shows and an annual Western Week, all stemming from the progress of Milam County agriculture.

Indeed, these shows have attracted state and national interest, further honoring the spirit of enterprise that prompted their creation.

But in Cameron's case, a balanced horizon has been a strength that augmented and was augmented by agriculture. And that strength is dependent upon further development of jobs for Milam County's people.

The natural step to obtain industry is to create an organization, well planned, to reach out.

Cameron has done most of the basic things that will appeal to industrial prospects and their employees. Now we must bring them together.

If our county people are being displaced, why must they make the unanticipated jump from farm to large city? Are not their chances for gainful employment limited by lack of preparation for a totally new environment?

Or, why should Cameron allow other towns and cities of similar size to grab off industries that would prefer our central location to communities which offer extra inducement?

Would we have lost 657 farms in five years in Milam County if employment had been available for score of our farmers?

We need not wait until some industry discovers the values of Cameron's location. There is no reason for hundreds of families to leave the farm if employment can come to them and Cameron can bring it.

An industrial organization does not assure miracles. But it says to inquiring industry that we are "pitching". And when they visit this city, they will be impressed by the fact that Cameron is building while others are not.

We wish Cameron well in forming a foundation that can reach out. And we hope Cameron sees its merit in an overall plan to keep this community on the upbeat.

Legislature Faces Financial Problem

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — When the Legislature faces a difficult problem on which there are sharp differences of opinion, the final legislation is usually a sort of Irish Stew of compromises.

Ingredients for this session's main dish, state financing, are fast pouring into the pot. Simultaneously, Gov. Price Daniel and the Legislative Budget Board presented plans for state spending in 1962 - 63.

Governor Daniel recommended general revenue spending of $479-964,734. Budget Board recommended $356,183,172 -- a difference of $123,781,562.

New spending recommended by the governor would include a medical care program for the aged, $600 a year salary hike for public school teachers and other improvements in education.

As a primary source of new money, the governor endorsed the payroll tax proposal recommended last fall by the State Finance Advisory Committee. He also approved raising state college tuition by $50 a semester.

Daniel urged lawmakers to handle separately the deficit that's expected to be about $65,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year. For this he tabbed a temporary 3 per cent natural gas tax, a franchise tax, escheat bill and transfer of the farm to market road program from the general revenue to the highway fund.

ANNEXATION LIMIT PROPOSED

A brake on headlong expansion of city limits would be provided in a bill introduced by Rep. W. T. Oliver of Port Neches.

Under the bill, cities could annex only 10 per cent of their surrounding territory each year. Meanwhile, each city would have a measure of control through "extra territorial jurisdiction" of a zone from ½ to 5 miles deep on its perimeter. This would give the city direction over construction and sanitation codes and enable it to prevent the development of outlying slums.

Many officials feel that some board in annexing more territory than they are able to digest.

AUTO INSURANCE CHANGE

Sen. Grady Hazlewood of Amarillo, long time critic of present auto insurance regularions, has outlined a liberalized plan he will ask the Legislature to approve.

Changes recommended by the senator:

1. Use of only that part of a driver's record which was made since January, 1960, date the new merit system when into effect. As set up, insurance rates are based on driver's record for the past three years.

2. Eliminate from the list of violations causing insurance rate penalties (a) speeding less than 15 miles per hour over the limit (b) stop light violations involving amber, rather than red lights and (c) "creeping', at stop signs.

3. Eliminate from accidents that result in a penalty those where less than $100 damage is caused. Present limit is $25.

SCHOOLS' PORTION DOWN

Texas' public schools' share of state spending has dropped from 35.5 per cent in 1950 to 30.6 percent in 1960.

In a report to Governor Daniel Texas Education noted that while state spending on public schools has doubled in the decade, other states have upped school financing even more.

In the 1950 - 60 period, the scholastic population increased 34 per cent, enrollment 46 per cent and average daily attendance 50 per cent. State spending on schools rose from $187,000,000 to $356-000,000.

Texas State Board of Education, TEA's policy making body, has recommended a raise for teachers, but did not specify how much it felt the raise should be.

Internal Revenue Urges Self-Help

Taxpayer self - help will again be urged by Internal Revenue Service during the income tax filing period from now to April 17, A. P. Andrews Administrative Officer of Internal Revenue Service at Temple said today.

Self - help means that the taxpayer completes as much of his 1960 return as possible before asking Internal Revenue for help. This saves the time of IRS people who, in turn, save the taxpayers' money when uninterrupted from their routine duties of seeing that every taxpayer bears his fair share of the tax burden.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Confusion Aroused Over Laws Congress Has Been Worrying With

Dear editar:

I'm not interested in any appointment in Washington, I can get talked about enough right here at home where I'm comfortable without going to the national capital for it, but I have been following the newspaper accounts of hearings on appointments made by the new President and it looks like I could qualify for nearly any of the jobs.

That is, I wouldn't have any conflict of interests. I wouldn't have to sell off any stocks and bonds. I got a clean bill of health on that score, which seemed to be the only point the committees were interested in checking into when a prospective appointee came before them.

As I understand it, conflict of interest means if a man owns stock in a big company doing business with the government, he's got to get rid of his stock before he can serve, or else he might have a natural tendency to let government contracts where it would do the most good for his stock.

I have been thinking this matter over and while I'm not going into the fairness of the law, it's probably a pretty good one still I'm afraid Congress is going to have trouble enforcing it, if it goes into it far enough.

For example, take the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. As I understand it, his job is to promote the health, education and welfare of the people, consequently, to avoid any personal conflict of interest, does this means he has to get rid of his family and all his other relatives and friends? Obviously, he can't be promoting measures which will redound to the interest of his own family.

Or take the Secretary of Agriculture. He ought to know something about farming and about the only way I know to learn something about farming is to own some land, yet clearly a land - owner would run head-on into a conflict of interest if he promoted something fo rthe good promoted something for the good of the land or the good of the farmer, although there are people who will say there have been secretaries of Agriculture who could never be accused of promoting anything like that.

This thing requires considerable study. And to top it off, I understand President Kennedy has converted his possible conflict - of - interest holdings into government bonds. And there you are. Every time he promotes something for the good of the government isn-t he promoting the soundness of these government bonds?

Getting qualified men for government service is getting harder and harder all the time, but I doubt if it'll ever get hard enough to where I'll qualify.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

TS Hosts Party For Inauguration

By Cong. W. R. Poage

That all of us in this office might see the Inauguration, it is necessary that I write this letter a few hours before the actual changeover, but not before the great influx of visitors or events leading up to the official installation of the new President. Literally millions of dollars have been spent to make this a great affair, and in spite of the weather (it snowed nearly a foot here yesterday and most all of last night) there is certain to be a tremendous crowd. Indeed, the Texas Society held the largest reception ever held in a Washington hotel Wednesday night. I expected to get in the hotel at once and left my hat and coat in my car. I stood in line in the North wind for 45 minutes before I got to the door. I understand Vice President Johnson shook hands with more than 8,000 people. Last night I spent three hours on busses and walking to a downtown meeting (3 miles).

There are thirty or forty friends whom we know of from the 11th District here and, of course, there are thousands from over the nation. They are finding it difficult to get around in the snow, but I think it is a fine thing that so many people can feel that they are a part of the great processes which bring about a change in national policy.

During the early part of the week President Eisenhower sent up his budget and his final message to Congress. I felt that his budget was utterly unrealistic. Just as he did last year, he included in his income estimates billions of dollars, which in my judgement are not justified. Not only did he estimate as a basis for increased income tax collections a very sharp upturn in the national economy (which could only occur if in fact the fiscal policies of the new Administration are more effective than those of the outgoing Administration); he also included estimates of several billions of revenue which he says will come from an increase in all postal rates and an increase in the Federal gasoline tax. Congress rejected these increases last year, and I predict we will reject them again. Unless business gets far better, fast, and unless Congress approves these new and to my mind unjustified taxes, we cannot spend what he recommends without going deep into the red. As I said last year, it seems to me to be very unfair for the President to say he has submitted a "balanced" budget under such circumstances. I would have liked to see President Eisenhower leave office on a more statesmanlike basis.

Bryan Production Credit Association Begins 28th Year In Cen-Texas

The Bryan Production Credit Association in 1961 is entering its 28th year as an organization founded to provide short - term credit for people engaged in agriculture, dairy farming and ranching.

This group, one of 36 in Texas, on Dec. 27 observed its 27th annivesary of service to farmers and ranchers in the South Central Texas area.

The Bryan PCA was founded in 1933 during the depression and one of the worst drouths on record.

A small nucleus of farmers and ranchers met at Bryan in 1933 to form the organization only a few months after the Farm Credit Act of 1933 was passed by Congress.

Although government capital was provided to furnish initial loan funds for the association, the operation and administration was turned over to an area board of directors. In 1949, in the Bryan association, as well as 35 others that served all of Texas 254 counties, all federal funds were retired and each PCA became entirely home - owned and operated.

The amount of original stock in the Bryan PCA was $135, a small beginning in comparison to today's assets of $3,211,401.

Serving on the association board of directors are: William M. Forrest, Jr. of Midway, president; J. H. Stockton of Bryan, vice president, and Ted Ford of Rosebud, Garwood Gerdes of Deanville and Valton Hall of Calvert.

The Bryan PCA serves a six-county area of Brazos, Burleson, Milam, Grimes, Madison and Robertson. The central office is in Bryan with field offices in Caldwell and Cameron.

J. K. Francklow and H. P. Dansby Jr. are assistant managers in Bryan, and field office managers are Robert M. Clark in Cameron and Roy Hermann in Caldwell.

Employer Must Issue Form W-2 By Feb. 1

Here's a memo from Internal Revenue Service for employers in this area:

Employees should receive two copies of a Withholding Statement, Form W-2, on or before Wednesday, Feb. 1.

A. P. Andrews, administrative officer of Internal Revenue Service at Temple, said "This statement shows the total wages paid and the income tax and social security tax withheld, if any, during the calendar year 1960.'.

Total wages shown on an employee's W-2 must include amounts received as sick pay from his employer, even though no tax has been withheld on such sick pay. Sick pay is not required to be shown separately.

If it becomes necessary to correct a W-2 after it has been given to an employee, a revised statement must be issued and marked "corrected by employer".

Deer Harvest Heavy For 1960 Season

AUSTIN — Preliminary reports indicated the 1960 deer hunting season, which closed Dec. 31 was the most successful in the history of the Game and Fish Commission, according to H. D. Dogen, executive secretary.

Figures compiled by the wildlife management division show a definite increase in the kill on public hunts on the management areas. The Commission issued 2,439 permits for hunting on these areas. There were 1,841 hunters reporting and they killed 572 deer for an average of 31.07 percent hunter success. This included 261 antlered and 311 antlerless deer.

The antlerless deer kill in regulatory counties for the year was the highest of any previous year, reaching a total of 16,948 killed for a 32.23 per cent hunter success on the permits issued. This hunting was over an area of 4,374,777 acres of land with 3,565 landowners participating in the program.

Field biologists estimated that the harvest would have been heavier except for rain soaked pastures during much of the season, which held down hunting.

Heaviest recorded kill was in Llano County, where 10, 753 deer were killed. Of that number, 4,708 antlerless deer were taken. Last year, Llano County checked 9,220 deer through the station there.

Harvest of antlerless deer in heavy number was recommended for the past season in an effort to bring the deer population on many areas into balance.

Based on January 1 conditions, the Crop Reporting Board forecasts the winter vegetable crop for fresh market will be 4 percent less than last winter, but 6 per cent above average.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gilleland sons of Houston spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gilleland.

Quail Season Over Soon For Hunters

AUSTIN — Although the quail season under the general laws in Texas ended Jan. 16 quail still may be shot in a number of counties of the State.

In the Trinity - Brazos area, which is under regulatory authority, quail may be taken legally through Jan. 31. The limit is 12 per day or 36 in possession. This area includes Bell, Brazos, Coryell, Falls Freestone, Grimes, Limestone, McLennan, Milam Robertson, Washington and Williamson counties.

Shooting in the Possum Kingdom area closes Jan. 20. The limit there has been 15 per day and 45 in possession.

Under special laws the quail season in Kleberg and Kenedy counties continues through Jan. 31 with a limit of 12 and 36 in possession.

Quail are suffering right now in many sections of the State because of food scarcity, according to E. A. Walker, director of wildlife restoration of the Game and Fish Commission. Snows in the Panhandle area have covered much of the food. In the Possum Kingdom area, quail are not eating rag weed seed and greens, according to crop studies.

Because of heavy rains in some nesting areas last spring and drouth in other areas, which has held down the food supply, quail hunting for the past season has been reported very spotty.

Outdoors In Texas

When a boy, I would lie back in bed with my head on my hands and do a lot of boy-type thinking. On cold, still nights my thoughts often were interupted by the lonely repetitious honking of geese high overhead. All though life this "goose-to-goose" conservation has reminded me that winter was closing in.

But, I never gave much thought to where these geese had been up until the time they flopped their wings high over my warm bed. And I didn't even dream that there might come a day when I would hear them no longer.

Like so many other boys, I imagined that they just came flying out of the clear blue sky. I wasn't even interested in what happened to them when they weren't filling the skies.

I guess I felt the same way about the ducks.

However, a new interest rang on my door when I began to take pot shots at them. This interest has grown as I have grown, until today I find myself wondering even more about the welfare of our waterfowl.

I no longer hear the familiar honking as I did when a boy, at least not as often as then. It seems that the swoosh of ducks winging their way ever farther south doesn't fill the sky as it did once.

Today, unlike the days of my boy hood, I realize that there are two ends to the duck and geese situation. I've learned that the condition in Canada and other nesting areas can dictate enxt year's waterfowl crop.

And, according to an official publication things look bad for our waterfowl.

This year the government has placed all kinds of "ifs and buts." in the laws of governing the taking of ducks and geese. If things don't pick up in Canada, we'll have even more drastic laws next year and in years to come.

The publication says habitat conditions have been deteriorating steadily all fall and into the winter.

Continual dry weather has left a great many of the smaller sloughs and potholes completely dry. Ducks and geese must have these places for nesting and feeding. Many of the larger lakes are very low.

A good heavy snowfall during the winter months definately is needed for the run-off necessary to replenish these vital waterfowl areas.

From Alberta comes the word that the snowfall there has been about six inches, not nearly enough to assure an average runn-off. Provincial reports from that general area indicate that the last flocks of geese and ducks departed for parts unknown during the first part of November.

The same report comes from the Sakatchewan area. All waterfowl there had left by November 7. A snowfall of about 7 inches fell in the area just prior to the freeze-up. More snow is needed.

A heavy snow is needed in the Saskatoon area to replenish water supplies in both parklands and prairies there.

So it looks like the ducks and geese are going to need the helping hand of both man and nature. We cannot control nature, but thanks to the conservation minded people both here and in Canada we can take emergency measures to guarantee waterfowl a maximum protection from complete eradication by unnatural causes such as hunting.

Some hunters often neglect the fact that restrictions are sometimes quite necessary. And when these needed regulations are drawn up, we often get a little perturbed and criticize those who write and enforce them.

Every so often, a greedy character will knock down illegal ducks or kill twice his limit. He does this without considering what the consequences would be if all hunters did the same thing. Thank God there are only a few of this kind of people around.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the many kind friends who sent flowers, food, cards of condolence and helped in any way during the recent death of our mother, Mrs. Maud Crittesden.

T. A. Crittenden and Family.

History tells of many once popular game species that today are found only in museums. If such game had been as fortunate as our water fowl is today, they might have been spared.

In Texas, for example, the pronghorns once faced extinction. So did the turkeys. Luckily, for them and for us, biologist of our Game and Fish Commission stepped in with their management and restoration programs.

Hunting pronghorns is once more a common sport. Turkey hunting is even more popular.

It looks like a duck cooperative program is in the making. With the help of all concerned, and natnre's aid, it should work.

County Agents Notes . . . .

Peach Varieties For This Area

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

For an early peach that ripens May 25 - June 5, CARDINAL excells others of the same season in firmness and attractiveness.

DIXIRED ripens about 5 days behind Cardinal. The fruit is a highly colored yellow clingstone with a firm and melting flesh. The Dixired ripens only about 3 days ahead of the CORCNET and it is doubtful if a commercial grower should plant both in our area. Dixired is a shy producer in some seasons.

CORONET ripens June 5 - 15, and has an edge over Dixired because Coronet is a semi - cling with a high flavor and is a little more attractive. The fruit is usually a little larger than those of Dixired.

TRIOGEM ripens June 15 - 25 and may replace old standard varieties such as Halehaven and Burbank Elberta.

RANGER, June 25 - July 5, is one of the popular varieties. It comes through late freezes well because it blooms late and over a long period. The trees are vigorous, spreading and produce a heavy set of fruit buds. This peach is a freestone with an attractive red color over a yellow background. The flesh is firm enough to be recommended for commercial purposes.

LORING, July 5 - 15, is sometime called Scarlet Elberta, ripens one week before Elbertas. Loring is an excellent variety, with fruits that bring top prices on marekts. Loring is somewhat resistant to leaf spot and hangs well to the tree.

REDSKIN, July 15 - 25, ripens with the Elbertas. Redskin is rapidly replacing Elbertas in many areas due to its more attractive skin color and better quality. It hangs well to the tree and is fairly resistant to bacterial leafspot.

ELBERTA is a July peach of high quality and is well known in this area.

FRANK, Aug. 5 - 15, is an excellent producer, highly flavored and is an excellent commercial variety. In fact, the Frank produces so much fruit that thining is highly recommended.

Basic Research Needed On Soils

COLLEGE STATION — Basic research is needed to develop new knowledge of the mineral nutrition of plants, behavior of water on agricultural watersheds and new principles of rangeland soil management, said the USDA's Soils, Water and Fertilizer Research Advisory Committee at their annual meeting held recently in Weslaco.

In making their recommendations, the committee said that understanding of the mineral nutrition of plants particularly the complex processes taking place between roots and soil, is essential for future soil - management studies as well as for national conservation programs.

Research on how precipitation runoff in agricultural watershed is affected by soils, land use, conservation practices and watershed features is another need cited by the committee.

Other areas which the committee said need expanded research include rangeland soil management, forest and related watershd managment, irrigation water conservation, and accurate erosion prediction.

W. Lewis David of Corsicana is a member of the committee, which was established under the Research and Marketing Act of 1946. The committee's detailed recommendations for research will be submitted to the USDA within the next few weeks.

To De-burr Dogs

Next time your setter or spaniel comes in from the field with its coat full of cockleburs, remove them with a two - tined kichen fork. The burs can be removed in jig time, without so much as a yelp from the pooch.

GOOD CROW DECOYS

Stuffed owls, fox skins, leashed tame cats and dead crows tied in trees, all make good crow decoys.

But these decoys should be placed far enough away from your flind so that incoming crows won't know you are anywhere around -- even when you start shooting.

Water Evaporation Retardants Studied By Experiment Station

COLLEGE STATION — Ponds, reservoirs and lakes furnish a necessary water supply for many phases of agriculture and industry in Texas and demands for this surface - stored water are inporation losses, however, often eliminate farm reservoirs and stock ponds as useful and economic carryover structures.

In an attemp to solve the problem of evaporation losses, researchers have increased studies on the use of monomolecular films. Laboratory information on the value and effectiveness of these chemicals has been established, but only limited field tests have been made. To help fill this informational gap, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station conducted a series of field tests in Throckmorton county.

For these tests a fairly large earthen dam was constructed on a small watershed, and twin ponds were constructed just below the dam. Dikes and diversions around the ponds reduced runoff intake and a sheet of polythelene on the floors and sides prevented seepage. Water was measured into each of the ponds. One of the ponds was treated with the anti - evaporant and the other was used as a check.

Hexadecanol, a fatty alcohol produced from animal, vegetable and marine oils, was used to provide the monomolecular film. For one test this marerial was applied as a solid, but for the other test it was applied as a liquid. No decrease in evaporation resulted from the application of the solid material, but a reduction of almost 25 percent occurred when the material was applied as a liquid.

Liquid application has its drawbacks, however, If water should get into the application apparatus, or if the temperature drops too low, the liquid hexadecanol will crystallize. Future tests will be made in an attempt to imtain more efficient distribution of the material.

A report of these tests has been published and copies of PR - 2158 may be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

All certified markets are subject to the registration, bonding and fair trade practices provisions of the federal Packers and Stockyards Act, administered by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. own self - government code of standards.

Savings of time and labor have resulted from an improved method of pinpointing dairy herds infected with brucellosis.

Miss Holder Takes Graduate Work At Mexico City College

MEXICO CITY - Among the nearly one thousand students from all over the world enrolled this quarter at Mexico City College is Miss Norinne E. Holder of Cameron.

Mexico City College, which is a member of the Southern Association of U. S. Colleges, operates on the U. S. quarter system and credits are accepted and transferable to U. S. colleges and universities.

The typically American campus life at MCC is broadened by the continual mingling with people and customs of another country. Though her classes are taught in English, Miss Holder speaks in Spanish when buying textbooks from the campus bookstore or ordering lunch at the student cafeteria. Aided by the college housing program, many students find living accommodations in the homes of Mexican families, where they are introduced first - hand to the Mexican way of life.

Miss Holder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry C. Holder, Cameron. A 1957 graduate of Baylor University, she is doing graduate work at the college in history.

USE LIGHT LOADS

Many hunters shoot better with light loads when hunting upland game.

Because of the lesser recoil they flinch less and therefore make more kills. And the cost of light load ammunition is less.

Save your long - brass shells for geese, ducks and other long-range targets.
